DETAILED ACTION

Claims 1-23 are currently pending in the instant application and are subject to a lack of unity requirement.

Election of Species

This application contains claims directed to more than one species of the generic invention. These species are deemed to lack unity of invention because they are not so linked as to form a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1.

Applicant is required, in reply to this action, to elect single disclosed specie for each of genre a) to d) detailed below.

The species are as follows:

Please note that the election of a single disclosed specie in each case is "only" required if the "presence" is elected.

a) Election of the absence or presence of a gelling agent and if electing the "presence" further election of a single disclosed specie of the gelling agent, from those recited in instant claim 3.

b) Election of the absence or presence of a non-swelling polymer and if electing the "presence" further election of a single disclosed specie of non-swelling polymer, from those recited in instant claim 4.

c) Election of the absence or presence of a conjugation agent and if electing the "presence" further election of a single disclosed specie of the conjugation agent, from those recited in instant claim 5.

d) Election of the absence or presence of a coating polymer and if electing the “presence” further election of a single disclosed specie of a coating polymer, from those recited in instant claim 12.

e) Election of the absence or presence of water soluble compound and if electing the “presence” further election of a single disclosed specie of the water soluble compound, from those recited in instant claim 9.

The species are structurally divergent, differ in their physical, chemical and biological properties and activities and thereby require searching in different class/subclasses and use of different search queries. For instance, among the gelling agents claimed, hydroxy propylmethylcellulose is a semi synthetic inert viscoelastic polymer also used in ophthalmology as semi synthetic substitute for tear-film, where as alginate is a gum extracted from the cell walls of brown algae also used in food industry. The reply must also identify the claims readable on the elected species, including any claims subsequently added. An argument that a claim is allowable or that all claims are generic is considered non-responsive unless accompanied by an election.

Upon the allowance of a generic claim, applicant will be entitled to consideration of claims to additional species which are written in dependent form or otherwise include all the limitations of an allowed generic claim as provided by 37 CFR 1.141. If claims are added after the election, applicant must indicate which are readable upon the elected species. MPEP § 809.02(a).

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include (i) an election of a species to be examined even though the requirement may be traversed (37 CFR 1.143) and (ii) identification of the claims encompassing the elected species, including any claims subsequently added. An argument that a claim is allowable or that all claims are generic is considered nonresponsive unless accompanied by an election.

The election of the species may be made with or without traverse. To preserve a right to petition, the election must be made with traverse. If the reply does not distinctly and specifically point out supposed errors in the election of species requirement, the election shall be treated as an election without traverse. Traversal must be presented at the time of election in order to be considered timely. Failure to timely traverse the requirement will result in the loss of right to petition under 37 CFR 1.144. If claims are added after the election, applicant must indicate which of these claims are readable on the elected species.

Applicant is reminded that upon the cancellation of claims to a non-elected invention, the inventorship must be amended in compliance with 37 CFR 1.48(b) if one or more of the currently named inventors is no longer an inventor of at least one claim remaining in the application. Any amendment of inventorship must be accompanied by a request under 37 CFR 1.48(b) and by the fee required under 37 CFR 1.17(i).
